BMW Group Indonesia launches the new BMW 320d – perfect combination of outstanding performance and exceptional efficiency.

Jakarta. The BMW 3 Series sets a new benchmark as the first luxury compact sport sedan featuring BMW Advanced Diesel technology in Indonesia. The new BMW 320d was launched today at BMW Active Drive Pavilion, Parkir Timur Senayan, Jakarta.

“BMW is a pioneer in introducing BMW Advanced Diesel technology to Indonesia’s luxury automobile market,” said Mr Ramesh Divyanathan, President Director of BMW Group Indonesia. This is in line with our BMW EfficientDynamics strategy, to offer customers maximum driving pleasure with minimum fuel consumption and emissions,” he added.

BMW’s 30 years commitment to developing the most advanced diesel technology

Right from the start, BMW’s engine development specialists recognized the potential of the diesel in enhancing motoring efficiency. They focused on the unique performance characteristics offered by the diesel in order to provide a new concept of sheer driving pleasure. Above all, the development specialists used the performance of the diesel engine to develop superior torque from low engine speeds.

The BMW 324td - introduced in 1987 - was the first BMW 3 Series with turbo-charged diesel engine. The BMW diesel was soon able to offer its unique sporting character – in everyday driving situations, as well as on the race track. In 1998, the BMW 320d set a record as the first diesel racing car to win the 24 Hours of Nürburgring.

BMW has spent 30 years continuously developing diesel technology. BMW Advanced Diesel engines now set the standard for torque and pulling power while consuming less fuel and producing less emission. BMW Advanced Diesel models in Europe contribute 70 % of the total sales, while in Indonesia the models have received a great acceptance recording 12% of the total sales volume.
