FIM Superbike World Championship in Doha.

With a spectacular final race weekend in Doha, Qatar, the FIM Superbike World Championship (WSBK) concluded its 2014 season. For the first time ever, the series held a round under floodlights. The experts from BMW Motorrad Motorsport were on site at the Losail Circuit and supported the BMW Motorrad Italia SBK Team and BMW Team Toth in preparing for the last two races of the year.

Sylvain Barrier (FR) of the BMW Motorrad Italia SBK Team had a season finale with highs and lows. The first sessions went well for the Frenchman, and the performance of his BMW S 1000 RR made him confident for the Superpole qualifying and the races. But at the end of Superpole 1 on Saturday, Barrier unfortunately had a heavy highside and suffered a lot of bruises to his foot, back and ribs. These affected him on Sunday, but Barrier tried to overcome the pain in the races. In race one, he finished third in the EVO class (14th overall). In race two he soon took the lead of the EVO field, and was lying in a strong tenth overall, but after five laps he had to retire due to a technical problem. Imre Toth (HU / BMW Team Toth) finished the races in 18th and 17th respectively on his BMW S 1000 RR.

Daniel Rivas (ES / Easyrace Superbike Team) finished the Portimão races in sixth and fourth respectively on his BMW S 1000 RR, while Eeki Kuparinen (FI / Motomarket Racing) finished tenth in both races. In the current BMW Motorrad Race Trophy rankings, Silva improved from
