Five wins in total: BMW riders Kenny Foray, Michal Filla and Jordan Szoke dominate their championships.

- Double triumph for Kenny Foray in the French Superbike Championship.
- Michal Filla wins both Superstock races in the Alpe Adria Road Racing Championship.
- Jordan Szoke leads the BMW line-up for top-three lock-out in the Canadian Superbike Championship.

Munich. Last weekend delivered more wins and podiums for BMW racers. In the French Superbike Championship (FSBK), defending champion Kenny Foray (FRA) won both races in Magny-Cours (FRA). Michal Filla (CZE) also triumphed in both races in the Alpe Adria Road Racing Championship Superstock class (AARR STK) at the Pannoniaring in Hungary. Arnaud Friedrich (GER) also reached the podium. In the Canadian Superbike Championship (CSBK), Jordan Szoke, Ben Young and Samuel Trépanier (all CAN) claimed first, second and third places on the St. Eustache (CAN) rostrum. Florian Brunet-Lugardon and Jonathan Germany (both FRA) also reached the podium in the French European Bikes Championship (FR EU).

French Superbike Championship at Magny-Cours, France.

Reigning champion Kenny Foray (FRA) and his Tecmas Racing Team enjoyed a perfect weekend in the French Superbike Championship (FBSK). In the fourth event of the season at Magny-Cours (FRA), Foray started both races from pole position, celebrated two wins with his BMW S 1000 RR and recorded the fastest lap both times. Camille Hedelin (FRA) finished in seventh-place twice. Foray's Tecmas teammate Maxime Bonnot (FRA) secured first place in the Superbike Challenger class (SBK Ch) in both races. Bonnot finished the two races in tenth overall.

Kenny Foray: “It was a very good weekend for us because we took two pole positions, two victories and two fastest race laps. So it was just perfect. In race one, we had really good pace and we could soon build a gap to the rest of the field. That was cool. The second race was a bit difficult because during the final stages I had to battle with Jeremy Guarnoni. I just overtook him on the final lap to finish first. That was a really good feeling and I am really happy for everybody.”

Alpe Adria Road Racing Championship at the Pannoniaring, Hungary.

The Alpe Adria Road Racing Championship (AARR) visited the Pannoniaring in Hungary for the third event of the 2018 season. The most successful BMW rider so far in the Superbike class (AARR SBK), Mercury Racing Team’s Karel Hanika (CZE), was unable to compete in the races due to a broken collarbone. The best-placed BMW rider at the Pannoniaring was his team-mate Ondrej Jezek (CZE), finishing in fifth and sixth positions.

BMW racer Michal Filla (CZE / BMW Sikora Motorsport) remains the dominant force in the Superstock class (AARR STK). He won both races again to celebrate his fifth and sixth wins of the season. In race one, Arnaud Friedrich (GER / Team LRP Poland) finished second to complete a one-two finish for BMW. Friedrich claimed fourth place in the second race.

French Superbike Championship at Magny-Cours, France.

The French European Bikes Championship (FR EU) also took place at Magny-Cours (FRA). In total there were four podiums for BMW riders: defending champion Florian Brunet-Lugardon (FRA / Gers Moto Vitesse Ordannaise) finished second in the two races, while Jonathan Germany (FRA) reached the rostrum by finishing third both times. Brunet-Lugardon still tops the championship standings, ahead of Germany in second place.

Canadian Superbike Championship at St. Eustache, Canada.

The BMW S 1000 RR riders claimed another clean sweep of the podium positions at the third race of the 2018 Canadian Superbike Championship (CSBK) at St. Eustache (CAN). The successful BMW line-up was headed once again by record champion Jordan Szoke (CAN / Mopar Express Lane BMW Superbike Team), who celebrated his eighth consecutive win – including last season's tally. Second place went to Ben Young (CAN / Ben Young Racing). Samuel Trépanier (CAN / Blysk Racing) started from tenth place and moved up to third to complete the top-three lock-out.

Australian Superbike Championship at the Hidden Valley Raceway, Australia.

The 2018 Australian Superbike Championship (ASBK) season resumed at the Hidden Valley Raceway in Northern Australia after a two-month break when the Superbike racers competed in two races. In race one, BMW racer Glenn Allerton (AUS) rode his NextGen Motorsports Team BMW S 1000 RR to a fifth-place finish. Allerton only just missed out on the podium in the second race by finishing fourth, just half a second after the top three.
