British Superbike Championship: Alex Olsen continues series of podiums in the Superstock class.

The third event of the 2019 British Superbike Championship (BSB) season at Donington Park (GBR) included a triple-header with plenty of racing action. This time, there were three races in the Superbike class (BSB SBK) instead of two – one on Saturday and two on Sunday. Christian Iddon (GBR / Tyco BMW Motorrad) was the best-placed BMW rider in race one. He secured seventh place on his new BMW S 1000 RR, closely followed by team-mate Keith Farmer (GBR) in eighth position. Peter Hickman (GBR / Smiths Racing) crossed the line in tenth place. Race two on Sunday had to be stopped after 18 laps due to rain. Iddon was classified in sixth place, Hickman in ninth and Farmer in tenth. Conditions had largely dried out in time for the third race. Iddon once again claimed sixth place, with Hickman following in seventh. Farmer retired after a fall.

The Superstock class (BSB STK) also boasted a packed schedule. A two-part marathon race took place on Saturday, with another race on Sunday. Alex Olsen (GBR) continued his series of podiums on the Team IMR RR. Olsen claimed second and third positions in the two parts of the marathon race. In Sunday's race, he once again crossed the line in third place. Taylor Mackenzie (GBR / Bathams Racing) finished in fifth, seventh and fourth positions.

Spanish Superbike Championship: Pole position for Carmelo Morales.

SuperBike Brasil: Alex Barros back on the podium.
