Munich. BMW M Motorsport's real-time video documentary MBEDDED once again offers exclusive insights behind the scenes of the racing programme in the 2022 season, following the main protagonists closely and offering viewers a totally new perspective on the big decision-making process. Episode four shows the new BMW M4 GT3 at its first big test in Sebring (USA) in November 2021. Among those in action are the American BMW M Motorsport drivers, who were gaining their first impressions of the car – particularly Bill Auberlen (USA). The BMW Junior Team and their mentor Jochen Neerpasch also play major roles in the documentary. The video can be seen on the BMW M Motorsport YouTube channel, at the following link: <https://youtu.be/Zxdles1kE7s>.

From initial scepticism to great enthusiasm, episode 4 of MBEDDED portrays the emotional rollercoaster experienced by American BMW M Motorsport drivers Bill Auberlen, Robby Foley and James Clay on their first outing with the car at the 24 Hours of Sebring in 2021. Auberlen's ultimate appraisal: "That is the best GT car I have ever driven."

The BMW Junior Team was back in action at this weekend's endurance test, the 24 Hours of Daytona (USA). Dan Harper (GBR), Max Hesse (GER) and Neil Verhagen (USA) not only drove the BMW M4 GT3, but also used their USA trip to visit Verhagen's family at their home. Meanwhile, Jochen Neerpasch, founder and mentor of the BMW Junior Team, enjoyed a trip back into his own past.
