BMW launched important new models in Russia in 2012. Most significant of them are the all new BMW 3 Series, the new BMW 7 Series and the BMW 6 Series Gran Coupe. Closer steps were taken to the customers in Russian regions — in 3 cities new dealerships became operational. The new BMW Driving Experience center was opened and the project for the new BMW Group Training Centre started.

MINI Countryman is the most successful model on the Russian market with its distinguished brand features for all those who want to bring more excitement on the roads. 2013 will see the launch of a complete new model for even more individualistic oriented drivers — MINI Paceman. MINI will add as well for the whole product line John Cooper Works variants with automatic transmissions — Countryman and Paceman included.

BMW Motorrad succeeded to be number one in the segment of over 500cc motorbikes in Russia. The new year of 2013 brings some very important offerings to the market: the HP4 — the Sport bike with no rival — and the new R1200GS are coming. For sure there will be a continuation of classic motorcycle gatherings from BMW and of course the GS Trophy competition.

Looking ahead Mr. Schlimme expressed confidence in another successful upcoming year of the BMW Group Russia: “We will keep our very attractive model range for BMW and MINI updated by launching new, additional models for our market here in Russia. At the same time we will continue to invest together with our dealers in Premium Customer services. This is giving us confidence for a positive outlook into 2013”.
